SCUTUM ACADEMY

What is Scutum Academy?

Scutum Academy

Scutum Academy is an established apprentice programme with a track record of providing future engineers with the comprehensive basic skills needed to prepare them for a rewarding career in the life safety industry.

UK Wide

Apprentices from throughout the UK have benefitted not only from the development of technical skills in a friendly and inclusive environment but they have done so in the knowledge that there is job waiting at the end of it.

Skills for Security

We partner with skills for security who provide dedicated group teaching, providing the foundational knowledge through both theory and practical that future engineers can employ in the real world.

SCUTUM ACADEMY LEADERS

Scutum Group UK & Skills for Security

“The feedback from apprentices has been really positive. They feel they’ve made a great choice and that they have a lot of opportunity ahead of them within Scutum.

Through skills for security we know our apprentices are being trained by the best trainers in the industry right now. Tutors who we’ve seen care passionately about teaching, and who push for a little bit more out of our apprentices, and are absolutely dedicated to creating the next generation of apprentices in this industry.

We really look forward to expanding Scutum Academy and taking on a greater number of apprentices from all around the UK every year.”

Kevin Roberts
Chief Operating Officer
Scutum Group UK

James Gribben Commercial Director Skills for Security

“We’re the UK’s largest provider of fire and security apprenticeships.

The government estimates that by the end of 2025 there will be a skills shortage of 25,000 engineers.

There are really exciting prospects for apprentices. We estimate that around 80% of apprentices within three years of finishing their apprenticeship progress into management roles.”

SCUTUM ACADEMY TUTORS

Skills for Security

“I’ve spent 20 years building up my knowledge and skills, all my experiences have shaped everything that I know. To be able to pass that on to the next generation of engineers coming into the industry is incredibly rewarding.

With a company like Skills for Security, I can go to work every day and make a difference to these learners experiences and help them on their journey, the same as I did with mine around 20 years ago. My hope is that if I can share what I know with them, they’ll go out there and they’ll get those experiences that have shaped my career and that I’ve really enjoyed and that they’ll have a great time as well.”

Jamie Yeomans Tutor Skills for Security

“I teach the apprentices all about fire and security systems to get them prepared for their end point assessment. It’s what they have to pass to get their qualifications.

Every tutor here does it all slightly differently. We all have our own ways. I generally like to do a morning theory because I’m an ex engineer of 30 plus years. So, I know that the practical side is the fun side. I’ll break my teaching up. So mornings usually are theory followed by something tied into that theory in a practical room at the end of the day. So apprentices can get to build their systems and do the ‘fun stuff’.”

“I like the responsibility we have. It’s a big responsibility, but you also get to learn how important it is to do a job correctly and make your customers happy, and make sure they feel safe and secure in their properties and businesses.

I think the main thing I’ve learned is to take pride in your work, because that’s what’s most important. I think joining Scutum Academy was the best choice I’ve made in my career and I’m happy with everything. I’m learning where I can go with it. You can go with many places. You can go into commissioning or design. There’s many options.”
